Winner: 'Environmental' Company of the year – Impax Environmental Markets plc

What is the criteria?	Companies are shortlisted using scores from the AIC, supported by Morningstar data. The scores are calculated by looking at cumulative NAV returns over three discrete periods. Returns from the previous 12 months are given a 40% weighting, the 12 months before a 30% weighting, and lastly, the 12 months prior to that a weighting of 20%. The final 10% is from the full cumulative NAV over the three-year period as a whole. This provides a single score out of 100, the highest of which are shortlisted. Shortlisted trusts must then submit a questionnaire which is used in the qualitative judging stage. Judges include leading UK researchers and investors in investment companies, as well as board members in the industry.

Winner: 'Environmental and Renewables' Company of the year – Impax Environmental Markets plc

What is the criteria?	Companies are shortlisted using scores from the AIC, supported by Morningstar data. The scores are calculated by looking at cumulative NAV returns over three discrete periods. Returns from the previous 12 months are given a 40% weighting, the 12 months before a 30% weighting, and lastly, the 12 months prior to that a weighting of 20%. The final 10% is from the full cumulative NAV over the three-year period as a whole. This provides a single score out of 100, the highest of which are shortlisted. Shortlisted trusts must then submit a

Winner: Boutique Manager of the Year – less than £25bn AUM

What is the criteria?	Excellent performance is crucial, but a longer-term track record is more important than outperformance in the past year. Information on the business's ownership structure, which shows significant equity ownership by staff or other methods of aligning interests, helps nominations. Evidence of strong inflows and asset growth (for 12 months to March 2020 and to March 2019), innovation, robust customer service, recruitment and business expansion also help. Performance and asset data are limited to no more than five funds – and must include a firm's best-selling fund and its biggest fund. Performance data should be limited to the 12-month period to the end of March 2020, annualised over one, three and five years – net of fees, plus the most recent 2020 YTD numbers.

Winner: Leader of the Year – Ian Simm, Founder and CEO, Impax

What is the criteria?	An award for the Europe-based chief executive officer, chief investment officer or business head at an asset management firm who has added the most value to the business they oversee and their clients in the 12 months to March 2020. Candidates must evidence strong asset growth and inflows for this period (versus March 2019), as well as investment performance and/or business success owing to, and initiatives personally undertaken by, the individual. Evidence of innovation, new strategies/initiatives/ approaches, recruitment, mergers, joint ventures, improved efficiency and risk management implemented under the person's leadership are also considered. Testimonials from colleagues, peers in the industry, but especially from clients, giving specific examples, also help. Performance and asset data to show the success of a person's business or team is limited to no more than five funds – and must include a firm's best-selling fund and its biggest fund. Only performance data for the 12-month period to the end of March 2020, annualised over one, three and five years – net of fees – is accepted, plus YTD 2020 numbers where available.

Winner: 'Gold' for ESG fund management group

What is the criteria?	The Portfolio Adviser Fund Awards are chosen by a 20-strong judging panel of esteemed UK fund buyers. Discounting backward looking detail, such as past performance and whether funds frequent buy lists, judges were asked the following question: for a new client with cash to invest, looking ahead with an investment horizon of at least three years, what are your top-three fund recommendations in each category? Once the winners were collated, Morningstar conducted due diligence on each fund.
